Dear Mr. Heyn:

Your letter comes while I am recovering from Illness and I have to leave on a trip.

In summary, your reasoning basically is quite sound and had it not been for the evil doctrine of the books that followed, WHITE-WASH would have been part of what would have been my second book, one I have researched and will still write, TIGER TO RIDE.

Your collection of clippings following the missile crisis is not new to me but if you could provide me with a full set that I could file at one place with the material for this writing, it could be quite helpful.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
